When planning and developing public-private partnership (PPP) infrastructure projects, the existing legal, regulatory and social environment of the country must be considered:

- A project agreement, no matter how well drafted, may be unenforceable and/ or irrelevant if it is inconsistent with the country's laws and regulations.
- The existing laws/ regulations may prohibit or impede the proposed project and so the project may need to be adapted to fit within them.
- It may be appropriate to embark on more fundamental reforms of the institutions in the country such as reform of the judiciary/ establishment of a regulatory regime.
